It Was Seller Beware When This Buyer Tried To Purchase His House

It's a tough market to sell a house in these days, and some deals can really go sour a Moore Street resident trying to sell his home discovered recently.

The Borough homeowner (not identified by police) thought he was on the way to a "done deal"as they say on Wall Street, when his real estate agent passed along a check from the buyer, a man named Isao Kasey Ima, for $139,000 last June 21. That represented half the amount of the purchase price, with the other half to come at the closing a few weeks off.

The buyer, however, had a request. Since the house was vacant at the time, would the homeowner mind if he spent a night there, because he was "between" homes, and needed to find interim lodging until the closing. The homeowner agreed to one night.

Unfortunately for the homeowner, one day turned into two, and soon it was a week, and the next thing he knew Mr. Ima had moved his wife and two teenage children in as well with a bunch of suitcases. They didn't seem to mind that there wasn't a stick of furniture in the home.

The homeowner might not have minded either, since he did have $139,000 in the bank with the closing coming up. Then, the bad news came from his bank: the $139,000 check, a personal one, written on Mr. Ima's account at a United Jersey branch here, was made of rubber.

Now he had a family of four in his empty house and nothing to show for it. Worse yet, Mr. Ima and his family weren't about to budge from their new-found quarters. He kept assuring the homeowner his bank had made a mistake, and things would work out.

Finally, on July 5, the homeowner's patience ran

HORSE AND BUGGY DAY: There were several weddings in Princeton last weekend, but that does not seem to be the reason why this horse-drawn wagon suddenly appeared on Nassau Street at Chambers Street Saturdey afternoon. With a motorcycle parked in the foreground and an airport van in the background it makes a fine anachronism — or perhaps it symbolizes the wish of many residents for a .eturn to a time when going down Nassau Street was just this easy.

Developer Plans 8 Condominiums For Witherspoon Street Property

An application for eight small townhouse condominiums off Witherspoon Street will be unveiled this Wednesday, August 9, at a meeting of the Planning Board's Site Plan Review Advisory Board.

The Board meets at 7:30 in the meeting room of the Valley Road building. The plan requires a use variance for a multiple-unit dwelling and for front- and rear-yard setbacks. It will go to the Borough Zoning Board of Adjustment for preliminary and final site plan approval.

The site is on the west side of Witherspoon Street, opposite Shirley Court. The developer is William Robertshaw, president of Williamson Construction Company of 345 Witherspoon Street, who has formed a separate company called Torrey Lane Corporation for this project.

According to plans on file at the Planning Board, there is a two-story stucco house on the property, which would be demolished to make room for a three-story structure of 3,390 square feet. The building would be situated perpendicular to Witherspoon Street and would extend almost the full length of the lot.

The eight two-bedroom condominiums would be attached units within this building. Each would have a garage and a utility room on the ground floor, along with an entrance door to stairs leading up. The first floor would have a living/dining room with a kitchen alcove, and there would be two bedrooms and bath on the second floor.

Each unit would also have a small private yard on the south side of the building. The garages and entrance doors would be on the north, the side facing a 12-foot driveway easement to the MacLean Street parking lot which is owned by the Borough. The lot is the future location of 28 affordable housing units under the Borough's affordable housing plan.

According to Mr. Robertshaw, the Maclean Street parking lot and two housing lots on Witherspoon Street were owned by five individuals in a partnership called Ivy Company which purchased the former Quarry Street School and turned it into a nursing home. The nursing home sold first to William Bogner.

Later, when the parking lot was for sale, Mr. Robertshaw's bid for $500,000 was accepted and he entered into a contract with the partner-

Ethan Hawke: Shy? Quiet? Only in His 'Dead Poets' Role

He plays the shy, quiet one in the movie "Dead Poets Society," but he is not the least bit shy.

In fact, talking to and interacting with people are what Ethan Hawke likes best, next to performing, and something he does well, especially for an 18-year-old. So the reaction of people who come up to him to comment on his performance in the Peter Weir movie about an inspirational English teacher (played by Robin Williams) and seven of his most responsive students has been puzzling.

"It's weird," he says. "People seem to assume that I am the quiet type. They are surprised when I talk or crack a joke, and they say things like, 'Hey, wait a minute, you're supposed to be quiet.' Sometimes I get embarrassed to open my mouth."

"Dead Poets Society," which will leave the Garden Theater on Nassau Street this Thursday and the Montgomery Theater this Friday but continue at Mercer Mall Cinema, is actually Ethan's second feature film. He has a third, called "Dad," coming out in November. His first film was "Explorers," a science-fiction movie with many special effects about three boys who devise their own space ship in a makeshift laboratory and launch themselves on an interplanetary journey. Directed by Joe Dante, it was filmed in 1985 when Ethan was 13, going on 14.

In "Dad," he plays a non-

'THE QUIET ONE': Having spent from November to June making two separate feature films, including "Dead Poets Society," 18-year-old Ethan Hawke returned home to Princeton Junction to catch up on himself, his family and his friends before setting off again in quest of an acting career.

out, and he contacted Borough Police for help. He filed a trespassing complaint against Mr. Ima, and the police issued another for a bad check. It seemed like the jig was up for the Ima family.

Not quite. It still took police another couple of weeks to catch up with these artful dodgers. Every time they went to the Moore Street house to serve the complaint, no one was home.

Finally on August 4, Detective John Reading and another officer were on Moore Street near the house speaking to the 18-year-old daughter and 16-year-old son about their father's whereabouts. They noticed a car come down the street, slow down, and then turn around.

They pursued the car in their own and finally nabbed the elusive Mr. Ima. He now has another free place to sleep, the Mercer County Detention Center, apparently unable or unwilling to make $3,500 bail. He faces trespassing and bad check charges plus others concerning the rental car he was driving. It seems he rented that on the credit card of a friend more than a month ago.

While, Mr. Ima sits in the Mercer County Jail, his family has packed up and left for parts unknown. The Imas are listed by police as having no known address. The Borough homeowner, who may well require a bank or cashier's check next time, probably has his house back on the market.

And Captain Tom Michaud who related this strange tale at the Tuesday press conference had a final word on the Ima family: "There's probably much more to their history than we know."

Two Men Are Arrested For Drug Possession

There was no baseball game in progress last Friday evening around 7 when Township Ptl. John Buszke spotted two men sitting in the bleachers on the field next to the Valley Road School.

As he approached to see what they were drinking, the two attempted to run away. Ptl Buszko caught Mack Swain Jr., 34, of 31 Leigh Avenue immediately, and Leon Haraburda, 18, of 249 Hamilton Avenue, was picked up a short time later on Terhune Road.

The two were both charged with consuming alcohol (beer) on school property, and possession of under 50 grams of marijuana. In addition Mr. Swain was also charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance, a bottle of pills which was sent to the State police laboratory for analysis.

Mr. Haraburda received an additional charge of attempting to elude a police officer. Mr. Swain posted $1,000 bail and was released from the Township lock-up; Mr. Haraburda has not made bail, and is expected to be sent to the Mercer County Detention Center. Their initial appearance in Township Court has been set for August 23.

Minor Fires Reported In Township, No Damage

A couple of minor fires produced little or no damage in the Township last week.

Late in the afternoon on August 3, a Princeton University employee in New South Building saw smoke coming from the Dinky tracks, and notified University security, who in turn called police.

Ptl. Robert Nielsen dispatched to the scene found N.J. Transit workers using an acetylene torch to cut several large bolts holding down railroad ties. The ties had begun to smoulder, sending off a column of smoke.

Last Friday a General Welding worker, doing repair work in an elevator shaft at Epstein's in the Princeton Shopping Center, ignited an accumulation of dust and lint in the shaft. Two trucks from Engine Co. No. 1 responded to the subsequent alarm, but the worker managed to put out the fire with a small extinguisher.

$590 Canoe Is Stolen From Magie Apartments

The hot weather last week must have prompted the theft of a canoe from the lawn behind Magie Apartments near Carnegie Lake.

The 12-foot, green, Oldtown Pack Model, a one-man white water type, generally known as a kayak, was locked to a tree with a chain, but this did not stop the thief or thieves, who brought along a pair of bolt cutters. The theft occurred sometime between July 28 and July 30.

The need to file an insurance report must have prompted a Franklin Lakes family to report the theft of some jewelry stolen almost three months ago. The jewelry belonged to the family's 18-year-old daughter, who was a student at The Hun School this past year.

A pair of diamond earring studs valued at $850 and a 14-carat gold bangle bracelet valued at $725, were stolen from a dresser in her room in a Hun dorm last April 17. She told police her door was locked when she left, but she discovered it unlocked when she returned later in the day.

Princeton Man Charged With Sexual Assault

An incident in Community Park Pool at 5:30 p.m. last Sunday has resulted in a charge of sexual assault against William J. Bauer, 31, of 86 Spruce Street.

Mr. Bauer ia alleged to have fondled a 9-year-old Brooklyn, N.Y. girl while she was swimming in the pool. The incident was reportedly witnessed by a lifeguard at the pool complex.

Bond Ordinance Voted For Recreation Design

Township Committee has introduced a bond ordinance appropriating $200,000 for preliminary engineering design of the improvements to Grover Park and Hilltop Park as recommended in the Recreation Development Plan. The public hearing will be on Monday, August 21.

Grover Park is behind the Princeton Shopping Center, and Hilltop Park lies diagonally across Bunn Drive from Princeton Community Village and extends to Mt. Lucas Road. Three unlighted Little League fields, a basketball court and expanded picnic area are proposed for Grover Park at a cost estimated at $781,000.

At Hilltop Park, the reconditioning and illumination of an existing softball field for use for softball and baseball is proposed along with the creation of a new soccer field at a cost of $525,000. The two projects are the first steps toward addressing a severe shortage of playing fields in Princeton.

The next step would be the reconditioning and reconfiguring of all the existing playing fields at Community Park South to gain one additional field and illuminating the field closest to Route 206, at a cost of $1.3 million.

The Recreation Development Plan also recommends the creation of a new recreation area at a municipally-owned site between Herrontown Road and River Road near the sewer treatment plant at a cost of $3 million.

Tax Impact. At the request of Committee, Christine Smeltzer had prepared a table for last Monday night's meeting showing the tax impact of funding the improvements to Grover Park and Hilltop Park. Ms. Smeltzer calculated the impact for Township taxpayers, assuming the Borough would pay a 36 percent share of the cost on the basis of Township/Borough ratables.

She said that the impact on the Township tax rate (which is currently $3.36 per $100 of assessed valuation) would be less than one cent to the year 1993, when it would go to 1.3 cents. It would hover between one and 1.5 cents to the year 2004, Ms. Smeltzer said.

"Why assume the Township will pay 64 percent?" Committeeman Thomas Poole asked. "Why not assume we'll split it 50-50 with the Borough. After all, these parks are on Township-owned land, which we've already paid for. Why not split the construction costs?

"The Borough is getting off easy," Mr. Poole continued. "It will be our roads and our police that will bear the burden." Committee seemed caught off-guard by the idea, which had not been raised in either of the joint public meetings with Borough Council at which the recreation development plan was discussed. Mr. Poole explained that he would have raised it if he had thought the rest of Committee would back him up.

Negotiate Later. Janet Mitchell, who has suggested that the recreation development plan be put to the taxpayers as a referendum question, said she agreed with the idea of negotiating with the Borough for a 50-50 split on the construction costs. Mayor Phyllis Marchand said that the Borough had "come a long way" on supporting recreation development and seemed reluctant to upset the equilibrium.

Township Administrator James J. Pascale suggested that since the Township is the banker for the Recreation Department, Committee could go ahead with introducing the bond ordinance for the full $200,000 and worry about how it would be apportioned later. Committee acted on his suggestion, but also deputized Committeeman Leonard Godfrey to approach Mildred Trotman, his counterpart from Borough Council on the Recreation Board, on the notion of a 50-50 split of recreation development construction costs.

In other business, Committee approved a resolution rescinding its threat to stand in the way of the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority's proposed $17.5 million bond issue. Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmierer explained that he and Mayor Marchand had been persuaded at a meeting of the Authority that the improvements to be implemented by the bond issue are necessary and are not a "backdoor bankrolling" toward the expansion of the treatment plant that both Princetons are opposed to.

Committee also approved a resolution which paves the way for Hopewell Township to construct a pump station and force main to send sewerage from the Princeton Farms residential development to the SBRSA's treatment plant on Aunt Molly Road in Hopewell Township.

Appointments. Carol Caskey, Township and Borough tax assessor, was reappointed to her post and in the process given tenure under State law as tax assessor. Mrs. Caskey has achieved certification as a tax assessor and has served four continuous years, the two con-

Township Housing Board Applies For Block Grant Funds for Loans

There will be a public meeting Tuesday at 7:30 in the main meeting room of the Valley Road building, 369 Witherspoon Street, to discuss the Township Housing Board's application for Community Development Block Grant funds.

The funds would be used for a loan program for homeowners in the low and moderate income bracket to make repairs to their homes. According to Susan Repko, Township housing manager, the Township could request up to $200,000 to be used for home repairs, and an additional $100,000 for repairs to community structures or facilities such as sidewalks or playgrounds. Part of the purpose of the public meeting is to find out how many residents would be interested in such a program and how much money would be needed.

"There is no point in applying for money that just sits there and isn't used," Ms. Repko observes. The program would supplement the Neighborhood Preservation Grant program that is already under way, in which low- and moderate-income residents can apply for and receive up to $5,000 as an outright grant for home repairs. But as Ms. Repko notes, $5,000 is often not enough if a new roof is needed, not just new gutters.

The homeowners loan program would lend homeowners up to $15,000 at an interest rate that has not yet been set. However, there would be no monthly payments, because the interest as well as the principal amount would not be paid off until the property is sold. The interest would be for a specified length of time, say six years.

If the property was not sold for 10 years, the interest would be no more than it would have been if the property had been sold after six years.

The income limits, which are set by federal and State regulations, are $23,352 for a single person; $26,688 for a family of two; $30,000 for a family of three; and $33,360 for a family of four.

For additional information call Ms. Repko at 924-8673.

ditions under State law which entitle her to tenure, according to Mr. Pascale.

Mayor Marchand announced the appointment of Alvin McGowen, an attorney, to the Township Housing Board and Martin Blackman, a landscape designer, to the Shade Tree Commission. Mr. McGowen lives on Race Street, Mr. Blackman on Shady Brook Lane. She also accepted the resignation of Melvin Benarde from the Joint Health Commission.

In the work session, Committee reviewed plans for renovations to the police station and courtroom with Police Chief Jack Petrone, Lt. Anthony Gaylord and the architect from Short & Ford. The renovations, which will cost $115,000, are to accommodate a computer system, renovate the dispatcher's area and make some modifications to the court to create office space and improve circulation.

Insurance Is Problem On Skateboarding Site

A number of young Princeton skateboarders, eager for the Borough to set up a site for them, heard some bad news at last week's Council meeting. The Mercer County Muncipal Joint Insurance Fund, to which the Borough belongs, will not cover this sport because skateboard parks are high risk.

Mercer follows the lead of similar insurance groups in the State, including those in Ocean, Monmouth, Camden, and Atlantic Counties, in not providing liability coverage for skateboard facilities.

Borough Administrator Mark Gordon told the meeting he had checked with the State Municipal Liability Joint Insurance Fund, which also will not provide this coverage.

The administrator said he had talked with Donald Barr, the Recreation Department's executive director, about looking into the possibility of finding an insurance carrier in the private sector willing to provide coverage. Mr. Barr was also asked to see if there are any standards which could be followed in providing a skateboard facility which, in turn, would interest a private insurance carrier in providing liability insurance.

The subject is scheduled to be discussed at the August 24 meeting of the Recreation Board, said Councilwoman Mildred Trotman, Council's liaison to the Board. "We have done this so the subject will get all the attention it deserves before a decision is made."

The youngsters in the audience heard a small presentation on the why's and how's of insurance from Council President Marvin Reed. He explained that the minute the Borough sets up a facility, it invites people to skateboard. "Then," he said, "if an accident happens, it's the Borough's fault."

According to the United States Consumer Product Safety Commission, an estimated 91,664 persons needed hospital emergency room treatment in 1987 for injuries related to skateboards. Deaths due to collisions with cars and from falls were also reported.

MSM Receives Grant To Study Land Use

MSM Regional Council has received a grant to undertake a study of changing land use patterns to improve traffic conditions. The project will be funded by the federal Urban Mass Transit Administration (UMTA) and is expected to take 18 months.

MSM Regional Council is an independent, nonprofit regional planning and research organization composed of citizen, business and governmental members who share a concern about the future of Central New Jersey. The grant will allow MSM to continue its effort to reverse suburban sprawl.

"There has been a great deal of talk about more compact, mixed-use communities that create a sense of place and conserve open space," says Samuel M. Hamill Jr. of MSM. "This project will allow us to find out how such patterns of growth will affect traffic congestion."

The study is expected to result in land use recommendations that generate the least overall traffic, have the most beneficial mix and pattern of land use, and support the most effective transportation demand measures. It will be conducted with the involvement of the private sector as well as governmental leaders.

The project managers will be

Reconsider Trash Bid Urges Council Member

Borough councilman Roger Martindell has expressed strong doubts regarding a proposed contract for the collection and removal of Princeton Borough solid waste.

In a letter to fellow Council members, Mr. Martindell noted two problems: the length of the contract and the inclusion of the tipping fee (that is the charge incurred to dump waste at the county landfill) within the contract price.

"The basic issue is this," he said. "The most recent proposal to come to Borough Council shows an 86 percent increase in garbage collection costs in two years. The total price of the garbage contract as proposed represents over six percent of the Borough's total operating budget on an annual basis. We should give careful consideration to the reasons for this increase. Two reasons could be the increases in the tipping fee and of the hauling charge.

"I object to the Borough shifting to the hauler the risk of any increase in the tipping fee," continued Mr. Martindell, "and then paying the hauler a premium for that shift, if the Borough has no information that the premium it is paying is a reasonable amount."

He also thinks the 29-month term of the contract is too long. "It is apparent that the municipal solid waste industry is undergoing radical change," he said. "During the course of any long-term contract, the Borough would be unable to take advantage of the likely increases in the bargaining power of the municipalities relative to the haulers."

The Council was expected to discuss the solid waste bid at its meeting last Tuesday night.

Alexander Street Bridge Alternatives Discussed

Township officials are awaiting the information they requested of Mercer County officials following a meeting about the repair or replacement of the Alexander Street bridge.

The bridge was posted for a two-ton weight limit in mid-June when a routine inspection revealed below-water deterioration in the concrete abutments supporting the bridge. At the time it was understood that enforcing the two-ton weight limit would be difficult if not impossible for Township police because the County did not have an ordinance stipulating that weight limit.

In July, the Mercer County Freeholders adopted the necessary ordinance, which Mercer County Executive Bill Mathesius signed. However, according to Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser, the main topic of discussion at the meeting between West Windsor officials, County officials and Princeton Township officials on July 25 was how to get the bridge repaired or replaced.

According to Mr. Kiser, two alternatives or scenarios were discussed. One is to rebuild the bridge on a new alignment to eliminate the dangerous curves in both West Windsor and Princeton Township. Mercer County officials say they have a letter in their files from the New Jersey Department of Transportation saying that it will only pay for replacing the bridge if it is done on a new alignment.

Under this scenario, West Windsor and Princeton Township would have to pay the cost of acquiring the right of way for the realigned approaches to the new bridge. Mr. Kiser said this cost is estimated at $2 million and the time it would take to have the new bridge in place could be five years.

However, he has studied the wetlands inventory mapping and notes that there are substantial wetlands along the path the new alignment would take. Now that stricter wetlands protection legislation has gone into effect, he says it would be difficult to obtain permission from the State Department of Environmental Protection to realign Alexander Road.

The second alternative discussed was rebuilding the bridge at its present location, with the County picking up

$200,000 of the estimated $800,000 cost and West Windsor and Princeton Township would pay for the balance. The two municipalities have asked the County to find out whether the DOT would be willing to pay the cost for a new bridge at the existing location if it is determined that the wetlands would prohibit the realignment.

According to Mr. Kiser, it has been pretty much decided that repairs to the bridge are not feasible. County Engineer Donald Harney has said that a temporary bridge could be installed in about three months time and that it could be a type of bridge used in other locations that could accommodate up to 20 tons.

Stolen Truck Recovered After High-Speed Chase

The pick-up truck reported stolen while parked on Alexander Street in the Township July 31 showed up on Witherspoon Street two days later, and became involved in a high-speed chase.

Borough Ptl. Michael Bender noticed the truck around 9:15 p.m. Wednesday, August 2, recognized it as being stolen, and began to follow the truck. Upon confirmation that the truck had not been recovered by its owner, Ptl. Bender attempted to get the driver to stop.

The driver, heading down Route 206 toward Trenton at this point, ignored the flashing red lights, and accelerated, reaching a speed of 70 to 75 miles per hour by Squibb headquarters near Province Line Road. Another Borough patrol car and a Township patrol car joined the chase, finally forcing the truck to stop near Carter Road in Lawrence Township.

The driver, Melvin Thomas, 27, of Oakland Street, Trenton, had to be pulled from the truck by police officers, and then became violent. Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt was kneed in the rib cage, and Ptl. Keven Creegan was also struck a few times. He was treated at Princeton Medical Center and released.

The three Borough officers together with Township Ptl. Scott Porreca subdued Mr. Thomas and placed him under arrest. Now in the Mercer County Detention Center in lieu of $10,000 bail, Mr. Thomas faces charges of possession of a stolen vehicle, two counts of assaulting a police officer, attempting to elude a police officer, and resisting arrest.

Store Employee's Tip Helps Catch Shoplifters

An alert employee of a Palmer Square store alerted Borough police to a pair of suspected shoplifters, and her tip resulted in their arrest a short time later.

The employee, not identified by police, saw the two in the Palmer Square area around 1 p.m. last Friday, and recognized them as having been suspected of shoplifting from her store in the past. Her call to police sent Ptl. Robert Currier to investigate.

He observed the pair acting in a suspicious manner and approached them. At this point, they took off down Palmer Square West toward Hulfish, discarding articles of clothing as they ran Pfl William Fitch and Pfl Steven Riccitello joined in the chase and the two were apprehended on Hulfish.

Arrested were Warren Livingston, 21, North Olden Avenue, Trenton, and his juvenile accomplice a 15-year-old female, 5'5, 170 lbs., also from Trenton. Mr Livingston was turned over to Lawrence Township police, who had a warrant for his arrest on a more serious charge. The girl was released in the custody of her mother.

Recovered at various spots along Palmer Square were four pairs of Hari pants ($68 apiece) that had been lifted from The Warehouse, a women's apparel shop on Palmer Square West.

Forest Jewelers Victim Of $40,705 Jewel Theft

Forest Jewelers, 20 Nassau Street, was the victim of a jewelry theft sometime between July 31 and August 1.

Police report that an entire jewelry case about midway back in the store was cleaned out. Taken were 23 pieces of jewelry: bracelets, rings and a necklace with a total value of $40,705.

All the jewelry cases are normally locked, but the sliding door to this particular case was apparently off its track, Capt. Thomas Michaud reported. There was no sign of forced entry to the store so police believe the theft took place during normal business hours. The investigation is continuing, but there are no suspects at this time.

Handgun Stolen. A Library Place resident has reported the theft of a handgun from a second floor bedroom. Taken sometime between July 26 and August 5 was a Smith & Wesson .38-calibre revolver, valued at $250.

The pistol was removed from a dresser, and articles of clothing had been moved about in the process. However, nothing else was taken from the house, police report.

An East Windsor woman, playing with her children in Marquand Park last Sunday between 2:45 and 3:15 left her purse under the front seat of her Ford Bronco.

When she returned, the purse, containing her wallet with $10 in cash plus credit cards was missing. She estimated the total loss at $45.

Student residents of Princeton University's Spelman Hall, located near University Place, were the victims of a burglary Monday between 11 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Entry was gained through a ground floor terrace door fastened by a thin piece of wire. This was easily broken and the intruder scooped up an AM/FM cassette radio, telephone answering machine, a Sanyo AM/FM stereo set and $5 in cash. Value of the other items totalled $190.

Forgery Attempt Foiled; Princeton Man Arrested

An attempt to cash a forged check for $70 at First Fidelity Bank on Nassau Street ended in failure when bank officials became suspicious.

Troy D. Hill, Red Oak Row, had stolen a blank check belonging to a Princeton resident, made out the check to himself, and forged the signature. However, when he attempted to cash it, bank officials became suspicious and did a handwriting comparison with the correct signature.

A call to the owner of the check confirmed the check had indeed been stolen, and a call to Borough police resulted in the arrest of Mr. Hill, still waiting around for the $70.

Criminal Mischief. A car belonging to a Borough resident was the target of criminal mischief late last Thursday night.

The Jeep Wagoneer was parked in the Tulane West lot but when the resident attempted to drive away he heard a loud clanking sound. Upon inspection, he found a large chain had been wrapped around a rear tire and padlocked. Borough police were called to cut the chain off with a pair of bolt cutters.

Sometime during the night of July 31, two small windows on either side of the entrance doors of Trinity Church's Pierce Hall were broken. There was no evidence of any entry into the building.

SHARE, a Popular Food Co-Op Program Relies on Self Help and Volunteer Work

"This is a very popular program," says Lynetta Murphy, Princeton Host Coordinator for the SHARE Self Help and Resource Exchange program. "It's a way for people to have help getting nutritious food every month and also a chance for them to work together as volunteers in the program or in the community."

Redding Circle Community at 63 Redding Circle is a Host Organization for SHARE in Princeton. Each month participants in the program receive a 40-pound unit of fresh nutritious food for $12 (worth $30 to $35 in the supermarket). They are also required to volunteer two hours of community service per SHARE package.

"In July, 25 people participated in the program here," notes Ms. Murphy. "But we have had as many as 80 people other months. There is no limit to the number who can join."

Food packages vary each month, she adds, but always include fresh meat, fruit, vegetables and staples, such as beans, rice or pasta. "Last month we had chicken leg quarters, pork sausage, turkey bologna, breaded fish, cabbage, green beans, onions, potatoes, plums, pineapple, honeydew melon, pasta accents and Corn Chex. All food is fresh or frozen."

A national Self Help and Resource Exchange program, which provides and distributes food on a monthly basis, SHARE was started in California in 1983 by the Rev. Carl Shelton, a deacon in the Catholic Diocese of San Diego. The program grew rapidly in California, soon spread to several other states, and now includes 17 nationwide. The New Jersey operation began in Newark in 1985, eventually expanding to 287 host organizations throughout the State. In the first five months of 1989, 9,000 New Jersey families have been served, reports SHARE headquarters. The Princeton host organization was established in 1988 by Ms. Murphy, and she has been coordinator since February of that year.

Described as "A Partnership of the Total Community", SHARE receives no government funds or subsidy. A variety of organizations, such as churches of all denominations, labor unions, schools, community groups and military housing projects, assist in community registration and distribution of food to people in their neighborhoods. Because of the very large volume of food SHARE purchases each month, it is able to take advantage of the lowest prices. Growers and food producers make food available at wholesale cost or below. The $12 fee from recipients covers all costs.

Anyone can participate in the program. There are no income eligibility requirements. All that is necessary is to sign up with the host organization, contribute $12 for each food package and pledge two hours of service per package. "This service can include a variety of things," explains Ms. Murphy. "People can help bag food. They can call people who have signed up to let them know when to come and pick up the food. They can also help provide transportaion to get the food from Newark. We especially need help with this, and we need vans. We also can use some volunteers to help the elderly pick up their food. Sometimes they have trouble carrying the bags or finding transportation to get here."

Other forms of community service might consist of tutoring students, babysitting, assisting the elderly or volunteering time at the local hospital.

"SHARE is a unique program," comments Beatrice Jones, Host Development Manager for central New Jersey, including Princeton. "It really does help people to help themselves. It's not a government project, and it's not a charity. It's really the people doing it themselves. It creates the partnership and the fellowship within the community itself. At SHARE we embrace the concept that we are in and of the community, and this is what really binds the program together. SHARE'S vision of community service extends beyond food distribution to a model of community development."

—Jean Stratton

Nominees Are Sought For Leadership Award

The Princeton Area Council of Community Services seeks nominees for its Citation for Distinguished Volunteer Leadership. The award is presented every fall at the Council's annual meeting to an outstanding community leader. It was presented to Peter B. Putnam in 1988 and A.C. Reeves Hicks in 1987.

The purpose of the citation is to honor individuals who have made an outstanding contribution in volunteer leadership roles in nonprofit organizations which serve communities in the service area of the Council of Community Services. They may have been, for example, board or committee members involved in planning, policy making, or advocacy or played a key role in program development or management.

The citation recognizing volunteer leadership differs from the Robert E. Clancy Award for outstanding Service as a Volunteer, which is awarded each spring by the Council during National Volunteer Week to recognize direct-service, "hands on" volunteerism.

Anyone interested in proposing a candidate for this award should send a detailed letter describing the candidate's volunteer work in leadership roles for area nonprofit organizations by August 30 to the Princeton Area Council of Community Services. For further information, call the Council office at 924-5865 or 799-6033.

Bus Fare Hike

Suburban Transit Corp. has filed a tariff with the Interstate Commerce Commission proposing increases in interstate fares, effective August 14. The increases are necessary because of increased costs for insurance, wages, employee benefits, materials, supplies, utilities and other items, reports the company.

The one-way trip between Princeton and New York, formerly $5.85, will now cost $6.20. A round-trip has risen from $11.40 to $12.10.

From Flax to Linen: 18th-Century Production

Flax Day, a Living History Demonstration of how linen cloth was produced in the 18th century, will be held at the Johnson Ferry House on Saturday, August 19, from 2 to 4 p.m.

In an authentic demonstration, using all the proper tools, Michael Colby and Donald Greys will show the step-by-step process from flax to linen.

The Ferry House is located in Washington Crossing State Park. Enter the park off Route 546, Pennington-Washington Circle, and follow the signs to the Ferry House. The raindate will be August 20, same time and location. Parking and refreshments will be available.

For more information, call the Ferry House Wednesday to Saturday 9 to 5, 737-2515.

Princeton/Newport Men Must Forfeit $3.8 Million

Two days after a federal jury convicted them on 63 of 64 counts of racketeering, racketeering conspiracy, mail and wire fraud, six defendants in the Princeton/Newport case got a welcome surprise.

The same jury of nine men and three women decided the defendants should be required to forfeit $3.8 million, not the more than $19 million government prosecutors had asked for.

The forfeiture issue was considered extremely significant, because the defendants were the first Wall Street professionals ever convicted under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Law (RICO). Under its provisions, huge fines and lengthy prison terms may be imposed.

However, while it felt the government had proved virtually all of its charges against the five Princeton/Newport officials and a former Drexel Burnham Lambert trader, the jury balked at the forfeiture amounts sought.

"We thought that what the government asked for was exhorbitant," said juror Michelle Rodriguez, who was asked for her comments after the five-week trial.

James S. Regan, Harbourton-Woodsville Road, Hopewell Township had the largest forfeiture amount, $3 million, levied against him, but that is $12 million less than the more than $15 million the government was seeking. Four other defendants, from whom the government was seeking approximately $1.1 million, were each ordered to pay $200,000.

They are Princeton/Newport partners Charles M. Zarzechi, East Shore Drive, Hopewell Township; Jack Z. Rabinowitz, Audubon Lane; Paul A. Berkman, Clarke Court; and Bruce Lee Newberg, of Santa Monica, Calif., the former Drexel trader.

Steven B. Smotrich, Knickerbocker Drive, Belle Mead, the firm's controller, must forfeit $1,245.85, one percent of what the government had asked.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Mark Hansen said he planned to file a motion asking the judge to overrule the jury's decision and require the defendants forfeit all the partnership interests and salary that the government sought.

U.S. District Judge Robert Carter said he would review the matter after both sides submitted written arguments.

Sentencing in the case has been set for Monday, October 16. Prison terms of up to 20 years are possible under the

We believe that academic excellence later in life is largely due to an enthusiasm for learning inspired during the early years when a child's motivation is high and his/her chances for success are good. Students in our program in no way leave childhood behind for the sole purpose of intellectual growth. Rather, they celebrate the special gifts of their age: curiosity, flexibility, spontaneity, will, and wonder.

Walk Along the Canal Set For All Ages Saturday

The Friends of Princeton Open Space will sponsor a special walk along the Delaware and Raritan Canal in Griggstown on Saturday, August 19, from 9:15 to noon.

There is no fee for the program, but pre-registration is required. The trip is limited to 20 participants, who are asked to meet at the Community Park North parking lot for the drive to the Griggstown Causeway parking lot.

Ann Cucchiara, D&R Canal State Park interpreter, will lead a tour of the Mule Drivers' Barracks and the Griggstown Lock. Carol Ann McCormick, Friends of Princeton Open Space naturalist, will identify the plants and animals that live along the Canal as the group walks the Silver Maple trail.

Participants should dress for the weather — the trip will be held rain or shine — and should wear sturdy walking shoes. They should also bring drinking water and a snack. The pace will be relaxed and the trails are well maintained, so children and seniors are encouraged to join.

To pre-register, call 683-9022.

Origami Workshop Set At Rocky Hill Library

The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present a program on basic origami on Wednesday, August 16, at 10:30 a.m. Martha Landy will demonstrate the Japanese paperfolding art and participants will be able to make their own creation. The program is for beginners, both adults and children ages 7 and over.

Registration is required, but the program is free and open to the public. For further information and to register, call the library at 924-7073.

Mime for Children At the Public Library

Mime Resources International will present a program called "Changing Faces" on Friday at the Public Library.

Sponsored by Young Audiences of New Jersey, and funded by a grant from the Princeton Youth Fund, the group will offer two performances, at 11 a.m. for children age 3 to 6 and at 2 p.m. for children age 6 and older. Free tickets are required for either performance and may be obtained at the Children's Desk in the Library or reserved by calling 924-9529. Children under 5 must be accompanied by an adult.

In "Changing Faces," masks are used to demonstrate the art of non-verbal communication and the role of the imagination in creativity. Mime Resources International uses the techniques of theater, clowning, and mime to provide children with a close encounter with the performing arts.

For more information, contact the Children's Department at Princeton Public Library, 65 Witherspoon Street.

backdrop to some living exhibits which include live fish, turtles and a newt.

Ms. Oliver completed the 6' by 12' mural for the grand opening of the Environmental Center. The mural took more than 90 hours to complete and has captured the interest of children and adults alike. Ms. Oliver is illustrating a series of children's nature books to be published at a later date.

The pond-life mural can be enjoyed at the Watershed Association's Buttinger Environmental Center Wednesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Center also contains a nature shop, a reading room and a variety of exhibits including some carnivorous plants, live animals and a video microscope.

For further information call 737-7592.

Ice Cream Social Set By Sourland Council

The Sourland Regional Citizens Planning Council will sponsor an old-fashioned ice cream social Sunday from 6 to 8 at the Hillsborough Country Club.

Participants will be able to make their own ice cream sundaes while the Blawenburg Band plays Sousa marches, Broadway classics, Dixieland tunes and other all-American favorites. The event will be held outdoors, rain or shine, in a large tent at the Hillsborough Country Club located at the northern foot of the Sourland Mountain.

The entrance fee is $3 per adult, $2 for children between ages 6 and 12, and free admission for children under 5. Proceeds will benefit the Sourland Regional Citizens Planning Council. Because chairs are limited, attendees are advised to bring lawn chairs or a blanket for the lawn.

Early Birds' Bird Walk

Carol Ann McCormick, the Friends of Princeton Open Space naturalist at Mountain Lakes Nature Preserve, will lead an early morning bird walk Saturday from 8 to 9:30.

Participants will meet in the Community Park North parking lot and walk the trails of Community Park North and Mountain Lakes Nature Preserve for approximately 90 minutes. Novice birdwatchers as well as experienced are welcome. Dress for the weather, wear sturdy shoes (rubber boots if the weather has been wet) and bring binoculars.

For information call 683-9022.

The Sourland Regional Citizens Planning Council was organized as a not-for-profit group in the spring of 1986 to ensure comprehensive planning, conservation, preservation of open space, and protection of natural and historic resources of the mountain area without regard to arbitrary political boundaries. The area spans three counties including Somerset, Mercer and Hunterdon and four townships consisting of Hopewell, East Amwell, Montgomery and Hillsborough.

Safety Show for Kids At S. Brunswick Center

The Center Stage Summer children's performances series will present the Ronald McDonald Safety Show on Tuesday at 10 at the South Brunswick Community Center gym at Woodlot Park on West New Road in Kendall Park.

The program includes magic, games and audience participation. All participants will receive a surprise to take home with them.

The program is co-sponsored by McDonalds and the South Brunswick Recreation Department.

There is no fee, but because of limited seating of 200, reservations are necessary. Residents of South Brunswick may register now; nonresidents may register beginning August 9. Call 297-4433, weekdays 9 to 4 for reservations and information.

Mercer County College Offers Shore Weekend

"The Weekend Wonder at Sandy Hook," on August 26 and 27, is being offered through Mercer County Community College's Division of Continuing Education.

Families will stay in a building on the beach. Scheduled activities include collecting and identifying marine life, exploring the beach at night, and an evening star watch.

Tuition and fees are $48 per person, which includes family-style meals and all activities. Families will have their own room; other facilities are shared. For more information, or to register by phone, call 586-9446. MasterCard and Visa are accepted.

Hopewell Harvest Fair Welcomes Area Artists

The third annual Hopewell Harvest Fair will be held Saturday, September 16, on the grounds of the Hopewell Elementary School, Princeton Avenue. In addition to rides, games, and live stage shows, the fair will feature an artists' alley, craft exhibit, and antique row.

Area artists who would like to exhibit may reserve space by calling Barbara Griswold at 466-3967. Past fairs have attracted painters, sculptors, photographers and fine jewelers. All works must be for sale, and artists are asked to provide their own display systems.

Crafters from throughout central New Jersey are also invited to display their handwork. The quality and quantity of craft displays has grown steadily, and this year's craft market is expected to be the biggest ever. To reserve space, call Donna Menzenski at 466-3409.

A new addition to this year's fair will be Antique Row. Since Hopewell is already well known for its many fine antique shops, the Harvest Fair is expected to draw a large crowd of both buyers and sellers. Commercial dealers as well as private collectors may call Penny Pypcznski at 882-4657 to reserve space.

Area Store Not Included In Purchase of Cohoes

The Burlington Coat Factory Warehouse Corp. of Burlington Township has purchased Cohoes Specialty Stores for $4 million in United States Bankruptcy Court. The shutdown Cohoes store at Market-Fair was not included in the sale.

Burlington Corp. said it would keep the Cohoes name and continue to operate the flagship store in Cohoes, N.Y., and two other stores, one in Henrietta, N.Y., and the other in East Windsor, Conn.

Another Cohoes store, in Cranston, R.I., was also excluded from the deal.

Most of the money from the sale will be used toward paying Cohoes' creditors, Empire Savings Bank of America and Key Bank. Unsecured creditors will get 15 cents on the dollar.

The chain declared bankruptcy after citing more than $15 million in debts. In June, Burlington Corp. paid $3.2 million for merchandise held at the Cohoes stores.

NEW FIRM FORMED: Charles DiDomenico, left, of Princeton Corporate Communications, and William Nyman, of Novagrafx, have merged their operations to form a new advertising design firm, Princeton Creative Communications.

New Facility Leased For DVI Technology

Intel Corp. of Santa Clara, Calif. has moved its Digital Video Interactive (DVI) technology headquarters to a new facility in Plainsboro.

DVI technology is the first to combine the interactive graphics capabilities of personal computers with high-quality motion video and audio in a single, integrated PC platform.

DVI technology was originally developed at RCA's David Sarnoff Research Center in Princeton. In October 1988, Intel acquired the technology from General Electric/RCA, hired the development team from SRI International, and then established the Intel Princeton Operation as part of the company's Microcomputer Group.

The DVI Technology development team remained at the Research Center until its new 35,000-square-foot facility at the Enterprise Business Center in Plainsboro, was ready. According to Dave House, a senior vice president of Intel Corp. and general manager of the Microcomputer Components Group, DVI technology was a small group when it started. In the past year, it has more than doubled in staff and production.

Business Planning Guide Offered by Area Firm

The Entrepreneurial Services Group of Rosenberg, Druker & Company has announced the release of its 1898 Business Planning Guide to assist business owners in preparing their business plans. "Although the true value of business planning derives more from the process of making decisions than from writing the planning document, all too many times the best-made plans do not get implemented because they have not been committed to paper," said Esmond Druker, managing partner of the firm.

The guide was designed to assist in the decision-making process and to help implement the plan by showing the various components required to develop the planning document.

Copies of the Business Planning Guide for 1989 may be obtained by requesting it on company letterhead and mailing the request to Entrepreneurial Services Group, Rosenberg, Druker & Company, P.O. Box 17, Princeton, NJ 08542.

TORREY LANE CONDOMINIUMS: That's what William Robertshaw of Williamson Construction is planning to call this three-story building housing eight two-bedroom condominiums which he proposes to erect at 152 Witherspoon Street. Pierre Coutin is the architect. This is the north elevation, showing the garage and entrance doors on the ground floor. Individual walled patios are proposed on the other side of the building.

ship, intending to build 28 townhouses on the lot. However, because of its size, central location and the fact that it was undeveloped, the Borough decided to condemn the property for its affordable housing program. Ivy was paid $300,000 as per the assessment made for the condemnation proceedings.

"My contract was voided," Mr. Robertshaw says, adding that "it was all pretty amicable." The Borough also adopted his 28-unit townhouse plan for its own affordable housing plan. The piece of the property containing the access from Witherspoon Street to the parking lot and a two-story stucco dwelling was retained by Ivy Company, and an agreement was made between the Borough and the Ivy partnership concerning that piece.

The agreement said that Ivy could build up to eight condominium units and that the Borough would support such an application (which would involve zoning variances) in return for retaining the easement on the access to the parking lot.

In his review of the application, Borough Assistant Engineer Donald Mayer-Brown notes that the building proposed by Mr. Robertshaw is "higher than most other buildings in the vicinity and would cover more of the property than most others nearby." He also notes that the 12-foot driveway easement, which provides access to the individual parking garages as well as to the MacLean lot to the rear, should be made one-way.

"Vehicular movements would seem to be somewhat difficult due to the limited land area available," he writes. His only other concerns seem to be landscaping (several mature trees will be removed), surface water drainage, and pedestrian safety on the sidewalk in front of the property.

For his part Mr. Robertshaw thinks the proposed building, which he plans to face with brick, will "dress-up the neighborhood" and provide moderate-cost housing. He has not decided on a price per unit, but thinks it may be $199,000. He says he paid $400,000 for the land, which comes to $50,000 per unit.

Addition to Flower Shop. Also this Wednesday, the Site Plan Review Advisory Board will look over the plans of Princeton International Properties to add a second story over Judy's Flower Shop and the entrance to the Whole Earth Center for office space. The addition of 1,723 square feet would be for a reception area, relocated conference room, copy machine room and four offices.

In addition Princeton International Properties plans to reconfigure the parking lot to the rear to gain seven more spaces, and to create a planting island using the existing boulders. Six Bradford pear trees and grass are planned in the planting island, and a row of junipers and two Japanese dogwoods are proposed along the perimeter to the north and east of the lot.

No variances are needed, and the application has been classified as a "minor" site plan. In his review of the application, Mr. Mayer-Brown notes that the proposed building addition "seems to unify the visual appearance of the structure and also seems to create a minimal adverse impact upon the surrounding neighborhood. The proposed improvements would make the rear parking area more visually attractive to patrons and nearby residents," he writes.

—Barbara L. Johnson

SITE FOR CONDOMINIUMS: If the Borough Zoning Board of Adjustments grants the necessary variances, this two-story stucco dwelling at 152 Witherspoon Street would be replaced by a three-story building containing eight condominiums. The building would extend back from Witherspoon Street. At the right is the access to the Borough-owned MacLean parking lot which would remain as an easement. The parking meters would be removed.

Ethan Hawke

starring role as Ted Danson's morose, monosyllabic teenage son, with Olivia Dukakis as his mother and Jack Lemmon as an adored grandfather who dies early in the movie. Filming for Dad began last February just as the 10-week shoot for Dead Poets Society was ending. Compared to the heady experience of being in a group of other young male actors working on location in scenic settings with a charismatic director such as Mr. Weir and a leading actor as talented as Mr. Williams, filming Dad in a Los Angeles studio was something of a comedown.

Peter Weir is the Australian filmmaker who did Witness, Gallipoli and The Year of Living Dangerously. Robin Williams' most recent movie was Good Morning, Vietnam, for which he received an Oscar nomination.

Early Performing Bent. Born in Austin, Texas, Ethan moved to Princeton Junction with his mother and stepfather, Leslie Hawke and Patrick Powers, in 1981 when he was in fifth grade. However, his enjoyment of performing dates back to his first day in first grade, when the teacher asked if anyone would like to a sing a song for the class. The other children hung back, but Ethan volunteered and has been responding eagerly to opportunities to perform ever since.

After seeing Annie on Broadway when he was 8, he told his mother, "I can do that." In his early teens, he began taking acting classes with Penelope Reed at McCarter Theater and participating in her Summer Shakespeare programs. When a friend in one of these acting classes suggested he come along for some auditions at a New York casting agency, he did so, and soon found himself cast in Explorers.

The shooting took six months during the 1984-85 school year. His stepfather was able to juggle his place of work to be with him in Los Angeles most of the time, and he was tutored. Concerned about Ethan's entering the Hollywood scene at such a young age, his parents consulted Ms. Reed, his acting teacher. She told them, "If anyone can handle it, Ethan can."

After Explorers, Ethan was up for the part in Stand By Me which went instead to River Phoenix, who had been in Explorers with him. That disappointment, plus the fact that Explorers was not the big box office hit he and everyone else expected it to be, put a damper on his film career for a while. Moreover, his parents had convinced him not do any more auditioning until he had graduated from high school.

Instead, he did a small part in Pericles in Summer Shakespeare one year and played the lead in Romeo and Juliet the next. Ms. Reed recommended him to Nagle Jackson for the part of a page in the McCarter Theater production of St. Joan, his first experience in professional theater. In 10th grade he switched from West Windsor-Plainsboro High School to The Hun School, where he performed in The Taming of the Shrew, You Can't Take It With You, Matchmaker, and The Glass Menagerie his senior year (1988).

INTENSE SCENE: In one of the most moving scenes from "Dead Poets Society" Robin Williams, left, as English teacher John Keating, covers Ethan Hawke's eyes and prods him to going inside his imagination to retrieve the imagery of the poem he had written but had torn up, too shy to share it in class.

"I began to get antsy again to audition," Ethan recalls. At Ms. Reed's suggestion, he had applied for early decision to the theater program at Carnegie-Mellon University and was accepted. The summer before he enrolled he got a call from the casting agent about Dead Poets Society. He read the script and loved it. "I said to myself, 'If I don't get this movie I'll never audition again,'."

Lucky Break. Ethan learned he had the part the day before Carnegie-Mellon started, and knowing that he would be leaving in early November to do a film of this caliber did not help his college experience. He was careful not to tell anyone at the school other than the head of the theater department of his good fortune, but a classroom experience which seemed not too different from high school suffered in anticipation of what was to come.

Dead Poets Society was filmed entirely on location in Delaware. St. Andrew's School, a collection of neo-Gothic stone buildings on 2,000 acres of farmland above a pond in Middleton, became the conservative, traditional New England Welton Academy in 1959. Filming at the school took place during the Thanksgiving and Christmas breaks.

The classroom in which English teacher John Keating, an alumnus of the school, inveighs against the textbook definition of poetry and urges his students to think for themselves was replicated in a nearby warehouse, as was the cave where the seven students who have revived the poetry-reading society of Keating's day go to try out his principles. During the filming, the seven students lived together on the same hotel floor much as they would in a dormitory and became close friends off-screen as well as on.

"We all got along really well," Ethan says, "and we knew how to get each other going. We had little jokes, which we used in the movie, and it was really fun. We really liked that movie, and none of us had done something that big before."

Build-Up. Before each scene, Mr. Weir would meet with the boys and get them to improvise with each other, and to read and write poetry. All of the scenes involving Keating were shot sequentially during the two weeks that Mr. Williams was on location, and according to Ethan, the build-up was emotionally powerful. The climax is when one by one, starting with the shy, quiet Todd (Ethan's role), the students stand on top of their desks to demonstrate their support for their teacher. He has been fired following the suicide of one of the boys.

"Weir put some music on, to help get us in the mood. We had all gotten really close to each other and to Robin. There was this great music going in the background, the guy who betrays everyone was crying, and everyone in that classroom wanted to stand up," Ethan recalls. As he says, "It was a major high."

While Dead Poets Society was still filming, he and several other boys auditioned for the part of the son in Dad — it seemed the natural thing to do, and an equally good opportunity to work with talented people. However, in contrast to the six-days-a week high intensity of filming Dead Poets Society, he felt far less productive in a film for which he was only called twice a week and had little to do but shrug his shoulders, as he puts it.

Sitting in a hotel room by himself the rest of the time was pretty boring, but he taught himself to play the guitar to pass the time. About the time Dad was ending and Dead Poets Society was opening, he developed a strep throat severe enough to require the removal of his tonsils, an operation that is more traumatic for adults than for young children.

Ethan was still somewhat hoarse from this ordeal when he was interviewed at his home recently. He was about to move into an apartment in New York and was thinking about his next steps. Lawrence Olivier's biography and a book on acting by Uta Hagen were at his side.

He hopes to enroll at New York University's drama school or to pursue further training on his own. He would like to do something on Broadway, but stage acting is very different from acting before a camera. To strengthen his stage presence he is working on some scenes with Penelope Reed's son Jared with Ms. Reed coaching.

"She's the best," Ethan says of his mentor. In addition to studying acting with her, and being directed by her, he calls her from time to time for advice and coaching. He called her before doing a scene for Dad that was troubling him, for instance.

For her part, Ms. Reed says, "He's a very natural actor, with a great deal of emotional depth. Acting comes easy for him, and he's very easy to direct. When he does get in trouble [about a scene] it's because he lacks confidence. My role as a friend and support has been to get him on center by suggesting things to think about that will help define what's happening in the scene, and to get him to believe he can do it."

The next few years should be very interesting for Ethan. As Ms. Reed puts it, "He's very young, and it has all come so fast for him." She adds: "It's very hard for anyone to survive in this business."

But she also says, "I believe that if someone is passionate about it and really wants it, he should do it. If not, he will soon find out and get out of it." Ethan, it seems, really wants it and is willing to go after it.

After graduation from Princeton University in 1929 with a B.A. in classics, he traveled to Greece as a member of the American School of Classical Studies. ———

His daughter-in-law, Gilda Aronovic, instructed him in painting at the age of 84, and his paintings were in two exhibitions sponsored by the Princeton Art Association in 1976 and 1980.

He is survived by a son, Sanford Aronovic, of Princeton; two grandsons, Daniel, of Ramat Hasharon, Israel, and Allen, of Darien, Conn.; and a granddaughter, Diane, of New York City.

A funeral service was held at the Jewish Center. Burial was in New Montefiore Cemetery in Pinelawn, Long Island.

$25,000.00 REWARD

HOMICIDE VICTIM
EMILY STUART

On Sunday, April 2, 1989, sometime during the late afternoon hours, Emily Stuart, age 74, was murdered in the basement of her home at 34 Mercer Street, Princeton, New Jersey. She was stabbed numerous times in the back.

A $25,000.00 reward fund has been established and shall be awarded to a person, or shared by persons, who provide information leading to the apprehension and conviction of person or persons responsible for the murder.

"Goblin Market" Staged by Princeton Rep Is Exquisite Vehicle for Two Strong Voices

News of the THEATRES

In its five years of existence Princeton Rep Company has earned a reputation for courage, imagination and taste in choosing and staging works — mostly contemporary — that area audiences would otherwise probably not see. Their current production of Goblin Market, a haunting, two-character musical based on a poem by Christina Rossetti and directed by Princeton Rep head Victoria Liberatori, is an exquisite example of the best of that tradition.

The second of three New Jersey premieres to be staged by Princeton Rep Company this season, Goblin Market is quaint, fascinating and female in style and perspective. The Rossetti (1830-1894) lyrics, the setting and costuming are Victorian, but the music — synthesizer, cello, violin and piano — and the staging have a distinctly modern quality.

STUNNED SURPRISE: Malia Ondrejka, top, and Derry Light react to the appearance of the goblins in "Goblin Market," the Princeton Rep Company's current offering at Murray-Dodge Theater. Final performances are this weekend.

Goblin Market, adapted and set to music by Peggy Harmon and Polly Pen and originally produced in 1985 off Broadway in New York, is the story of two sisters who return to the attic of their youth and re-create a strange and magical childhood experience in a haunted glen with frightening goblin men selling irresistible fruits, "like honey to the throat/But poison in the blood."

Whether seen as a children's fable about the love of two sisters or as a vision of temptation and sin redeemed by suffering and sacrifice, this delicate, poetic material could not find itself in more sensitive, capable hands.

Beguiling. Derry Light and Malia Ondrejka, superb both vocally and dramatically, are beguiling as the two sisters. From the first minute when they slowly, silently emerge from the trap door and move into the memory-laden attic, until 90 minutes later when they cover over the furniture and toys and descend through the trap door, they command the audience's rapt attention.

The music is demanding — sometimes in solo, sometimes in duet, in unison, in harmony or in canon, sometimes atonal, sometimes melodic — and these two strong, confident, rich voices of operatic quality are up to the challenge.

Ms. Light, well known to area theater-goers, and Ms. Ondrejka, a New York performer in her Princeton debut, create fully realized characters, a complex relationship and a shimmering magical world to surround themselves — and that is as much as can be asked of any performance. Their collaboration is exciting to watch in all of its detail.

Like a third character in this play, David Tenney, as musical director and creator of strange and evocative synthesizer sounds, helps to establish musically the shifting moods, the mysterious forest setting, and a whole stage full of tramping, crawling, prowling, cooing goblin men. Victory Sedlacek on piano, Kevin Shopland on violin and Judith Tsui on cello provide strong and colorful support.

Satisfying Unity. Geraldine Borrelli-Shea's choreography enables the two actresses to reconstruct vividly their magical childhood adventure, and Ron Kadri's sturdy, elaborate set provides both the realism of a dusty Victorian attic and a foundation for the action, enchantment, near tragedy and redemption that unfold. With her sensitive ear, a sharp eye and a fine touch, Ms. Liberatori carefully varies the pacing of the action and brings all these parts into a satisfying unity.

Goblin Market may have difficulty competing with the high-comedy, high-suspense mass appeal of prime-time television and summer movie blockbusters like Batman, Indiana Jones, Licence to Kill and The Dead Poets' Society. The pleasures offered here, however, are far more subtle, more sophisticated, deeper and more lasting. The lush language and imagery of Christina Rossetti, the talents of Ms. Ondrejka and Ms. Light, and the painstaking creative accomplishments of the entire Princeton Rep Company provide an unforgettable evening.

Goblin Market will be weaving its magic spell and haunting visions for just one more weekend, with performances this Thursday through Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Murray Theatre on the University campus. Call the Princeton Rep box office at 452-4950 for reservations and further information.

British Farce Readied For Three-Weekend Run

Leading Ladies on Screen At Kresge Auditorium

The two films to be shown Friday through Saturday as part of McCarter Theatre's Summer Cinema feature two of America's finest actresses: Meryl Streep and Barbara Hershey.

A Cry in the Dark won an Oscar nomination for Meryl Streep. With Australian accent and black wig, she achieves an uncanny resemblance to the real-life Lindy Chamberlain, a woman convicted in 1982 of murdering her 9-week-old daughter, Azaria. The mother of three and wife of a Seventh Day Adventist minister (Sam Neil), she claimed that a dingo (the Australian coyote-like wild dog) had slipped into the family's tent while on a camping trip and carried off her child.

Director Fred Schepisi cuts away from the Chamberlains' personal drama to show how mass journalism feeds the mass mind's need for a simple idea: people did not want to believe Lindy's story and kept trying to convert it into conventional tabloid sordidness.

The second film of the evening, A World Apart, tells the story of a fiercely determined anti-apartheid activist in South Africa, and stars Barbara Hershey. Directed by Chris Menges, the film is set in 1963, at the time of the inauguration of the 90-day detention act. Diana Roth (Hershey), a character based on the mother of screenwriter Shawn Slovo, is an upper middle class journalist who is imprisoned without trial.

Brave, courageous and totally committed to the cause, Roth is a woman who comes fully alive only in the throes of political passion. But in devoting her life to the struggle, she has sacrificed parts of her own humanity, and the film is told from the point of view of her 13-year old daughter Molly, who sees her mother as cold, distant and secretive — not as heroine or martyr.

A Cry in the Dark will be shown at 7:30; A World Apart at 9:40 in the Kresge Auditorium, in Princeton University's Frick Chemical Building on Washington Road.

The double feature for August 15-17 will feature five of the newest "hot" actors.

Married to the Mob is the work of Hollywood's master iconoclast, Jonathan Demme (Swimming to Cambodia, Something Wild, Stop Making Sense). It's an exuberantly tacky romantic comedy which sends up the garish lifestyle of Long Island mafiosi. Michelle Pfeiffer stars an Angela, the unhappy wife of a mob hit man who wants a divorce, and gets her freedom when her husband is iced by Tony "The Tiger" Russo (Dean Stockwell), who wastes no time in putting moves on the widow.

Angela tries to start anew, but everywhere she goes, she's spied upon: by Tony and his henchmen, by Tony's jealous wife, and by a young, gung-ho FBI agent (Matthew Modine) conducting a stakeout. The Feds want to use Angela to get the goods on Tony; Tony wants her as his mistress; and the agent, who's fallen for her too, finds himself in a professional and personal pickle.

The Big Eosy was 1987's steamy summertime answer to Body Heat. The title comes from the nickname applied by the locals to New Orleans, where Dennis Quaid plays Remy McSwain, a diligent but decidedly corrupt police detective who can pour on the cajun charm like syrup. Ellen Barkin is the young prosecutor from the D.A.'s office investigating police corruption, and the two embark on a collision course that gives off plenty of sparks.

Directed by Jim McBride, and featuring a snappy, bluesy score including several songs by the Neville Brothers, it's an exuberant, funky, genre movie.

Married to the Mob will be shown at 7:30; The Big Eosy at 9:20. Single-admission tickets at $4 are sold at Kresge Auditorium beginning at 7 p.m.

Classes for Little Ones At Music Conservatory

Westminster Conservatory of Music will offer a variety of musical experiences for young children.

New to the curriculum this fall is the Kindermusik Musical Beginnings class for children 18 months through 3½ years. Musical Beginnings will provide the parent/caregiver and child with a musical experience in a nurturing environment, using singing, chanting, moving, listening and playing musical instruments

———

Kindermusik for the Young Child, for children 4 to 7, continues children's exploration of their world through music. Musical Exploration classes will prepare children for later private instrumental study using the Orff approach to learning. Children will learn music notation through playing the recorder as well as through singing and movement.

The Conservatory's Suzuki Program includes private or semi-private lessons, group classes, recitals, parent meetings, jury evaluations and workshops. Suzuki Talent Education, also known as the "mother tongue" method, is based on the philosophy that all children can learn music in a way similar to that in which they learn language. It incorporates folk and classical music in a structured, yet creative environment.

Suzuki parent orientation will be held Wednesday, August 30, 7-9 p.m. at the Princeton location, and Thursday, August 31, 7-9 p.m. at the Mercerville location. For more information call the main office at 921-7104.

Atlantic Brass Band In Concert at Rider

Lawrence Township will present the Atlantic Brass Band in concert at Rider College on Sunday, August 27.

This is the final program in the township's four-part summer series. The free concert will begin at 7 p.m. at the Rider Student Center patio. The public is invited to bring lawn chairs and blankets. In case of rain, the event will be moved to the College's Fine Arts Theatre.

The Atlantic Brass Band, founded in May of 1984, in Millville, is an all-volunteer concert band made up of amateurs and unpaid professionals from New Jersey and Pennsylvania and Delaware. The band models itself after the factory brass bands of England which have existed for more than 170 years.

Using the instrumentation for brass bands conceived by the British in the 1850's, the Atlantic Brass Band has received wide acclaim for its renditions of such musical standards as Marching Through Georgia, and Stars and Stripes Forever, and for such special brass compositions as, Men of Harlech, British Sea Chonties, and Simoroine Quick March. Also included in their repertoire are contemporary popular music arrangements for brass as well as classical works.

The band has competed in the last five North American brass band competitions throughout the United States and Canada. In the last three contests, they finished in second place in the top championship section. The band has performed in Disneyworld in Florida, and in England, as the first American band patterned after the British style to tour that country. They recently returned from a tour of New England.

The conductor, Anthony Guerere, is the director of fine and performing arts in Hammonton. He served as president of the South Jersey Band and Orchestra Directors Association and of the New Jersey Music Educators Association. He has conducted the All South Jersey Symphonic Band and has presented lectures and clinics for music educators in Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey.

Mr Guerere has been recognized for Outstanding Achievement by the Senate and Governor of New Jersey, and received the Governor's Award in Arts Education for distinguished service as a music educator.

Season Is Announced By Singing Ensemble

Voices, a regional ensemble of 12 professional soloists, will present a series of four concerts in the Princeton-Trenton area next season.

The first, in October, will be a concert of French music, followed by Respighi's Laud to the Nativity with Teamwork Dance in December. In February the group will perform major works by Mozart and Paul Cooper, and in March vocal music of the great romantics.

Voices specializes in choral and solo works of the 19th and 20th centuries. The ensemble is directed by Lynne Ransom, who holds music degrees from Oberlin College-Conservatory, The University of Michigan, Eastern Michigan University, and Cincinnati College-Conservatory of Music. She is a member of the artist faculty at Westminster Conservatory of Music, where she teaches conducting.

The first concert, scheduled for Saturday, October 14, will feature French music in honor of the bicentennial of the French Revolution. The concert includes ancient airs by Josquin des Pres and Clement Jannequin, as well as Cinc Rechants, the revolutionary vocal work by the serialist Oliver Messien. Also on the program are solo songs by Faure, Debussy, and Poulenc, a baroque cantata by Charpentier, and popular French songs.

Voices will continue to present music for children and families with a "Preschool Music Party" sponsored by the State Museum in December, Seymour Barab's opera Chanticleer to be presented in January at Rider College, and the winning works from the Voices Children's Composition Contest in March in Pennington.

A borchure with specific dates and repertoire is available at the Voices office. Tickets are $10 to $18 for adults, $7 for students and senior citizens, and $3 in advance for children's programs. For information, call Mary Ellen Devlin, the Voices manager, at 883-6598, or write Voices, Box 404, Pennington 08534.

Family Sing-Along

The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present a Family Sing-Along with Pat McKinley on Thursday, August 17 at 7 p.m. Ms. McKinley, who conducts the library's toddler program, will provide an evening of song for all ages, from infants to grandparents. Registration is required

For further information and to register, call the library at 924-7073. The program is free and open to the public.

Volunteer Help Sought By Vocal Ensemble

Voices, a regional ensemble of professional soloists, invites the help of volunteers in presenting concerts and educational programs during the 1989-90 season. The nonprofit organization will offer a series of four concerts and three children's programs in the Trenton/Princeton area. In addition, Voices is active in performing new music, and will present three additional concerts under the auspices of the Composers Guild of New Jersey.

During concerts Voices needs ushers, ticket salespeople, a photographer, and stage manager. During some rehearsals a page turner and videotape operator are needed. Three times during the year a work party is held to assist Voices staff with publicity and mailings.

Twice during the year the board of trustees needs help with fund-raising events. Secretarial skills, audio-tape duplicating, photography, public relations by phone, and box office assistance are needed on a regular basis. In addition, the artists in Voices value the support of a volunteer while they are touring educational programs to schools throughout New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania.

Persons who can assist Voices are invited to call the manager, Mary Ellen Devlin, at 883-6598, or write Voices, Box 404, Pennington, 08534

Eileen B. Saums, Allied Member, A.S.I.D. speaks on BUYING FURNITURE: FEAR OR FUN?

Some people face the prospect of buying furniture and decorating their homes with a great deal of fear and doubt while others face it with fun and satisfaction. Which will it be for you?

Let's start with the basic premise that furnishing your home SHOULD be fun — because, after all, it's one of the most creative things a home maker can do. It's also one of the most rewarding things you can do because you are giving yourself and your family comfort and beauty.

One reason that some people face furnishing with fear is that they're afraid of being themselves in decorating, whereas usually the most successful decorating, and most enjoyment, comes precisely from being yourself and furnishing with you and your family's personalities and needs in mind. You'll enjoy it more if you look on furnishing as the creative, personal fulfillment it can be.

If you set out with the goal that you are going to make your home as attractive — and useful — as your budget will allow, and shop with the idea of being yourself, you'll find that furnishing can become a good experience. We're here to help you take the fear out of furnishing — and make it satisfying for you, the way it should be.

———

The Black Watch, Scotland's regimental band, will open the season on Saturday, September 23, as part of the "Wild Card" series. The Academy of St. Martin in the Fields will include works by Mendelssohn and Schubert as part of their program on Wednesday, March 28; and the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra with violinist Isaac Stern, conducted by David Zinman, concludes the series on Friday, April 6.

The Warsaw Ballet presents a full-length version of Giselle on Wednesday, February 21, the Ballet Folclorico Nacional de Mexico on Monday, March 12; and the Hungarian State Folk Ensemble on Saturday, March 31. The final performance in the series will be presented by the Princeton Ballet, a resident company of the New Brunswick Cultural Center, on Saturday, April 28.

The Family series begins Sunday, November 19, with Gilbert & Sullivan's The Pirates of Penzance. Storyteller Jackie Torrence, of televisions's "The Teller and the Tale," will present a program of holiday stories on Sunday, December 17. The Famous People Players will arrive on Saturday, February 10 with their black-light theatre troupe, and the Peking Acrobats will perform on Sunday, November 4.

"Lolli-Pops for Little Ones" will take place at 2 p.m. on Sundays, September 24, November 5, and December 10. The orchestra, under the direction of Dino Anagnost, uses animal characters to introduce children ages 3 to 5 to the symphony orchestra.

Subscriptions to these series are currently on sale with 10% to 20% discounts available. Subscribers may exchange one event per series for another series event of equal value. Single tickets will be on sale in September.

Traffic Light at Olden Helps Prevent Accidents

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a letter I have written to John Jay Mycoff, Area Coordinator, Community Involvement, N.J. Department of Transportation, about the traffic light at Nassau and Olden Streets:

I have read in the TOWN TOPICS dated July 5, that the Borough of Princeton has decided to ask the Department of Transportation to remove the recently installed traffic light at the intersection of Nassau and Olden Streets.

Frankly, this decision of the Borough of Princeton shocks and surprises me. My office is located at 234 Nassau Street and I sit at a window that overlooks the intersection. During the past 4½ years, I have observed an innumerable number of accidents at the intersection before the light was installed.

The intersection is a dangerous one, that required extreme caution to cross Nassau Street either from Chestnut or Olden Streets without the help of a traffic light. After the installation of the light, the traffic flows smoothly from all directions as best as it could be expected in today's Borough of Princeton.

The article mentions that the opponents say that the light presently impedes traffic movement. Nothing could be further from the truth. For instance, before the installation of the light, trucks and cars were often parked in the intersection, blocking the traffic.

The fact of the matter is no business man likes removal of convenient parking spots in front of their business, including me. However, one must realize that human lives are more valuable than business conveniences.

I strongly urge you to carefully consider all of the facts before deciding to remove the light. I am sure your records indicate plenty of accidents at the intersection which led to the installation of the light in the first place. I do hope that common sense prevails and the light is not removed.

Tribute to Dick Macgill From Former Partner

To the Editor of Town Topics:

With regard to the obituary for Richard Macgill, I would like to add my personal account of my relationship with him as to another aspect of his life. It also offers great praise to him as a banker.

I was probably the first person in Princeton to meet Dick Macgill. He came to live here after I met him in a hotel room in New York at a bankers' convention, and soon thereafter offered him a job as an officer of the Trenton Banking Company. I was at that time Executive Vice President of the bank, having been hired in October, 1948, as the one to succeed the then President, Mr. Caleb Green.

After a short while there, I recognized that we needed a good man, experienced in commercial banking, if the bank were to step properly into the future. Enter Dick Macgill in the spring of 1949. The family moved into a house on the Kingston Road.

From then until I retired in 1972 as Chairman of the New Jersey National Bank, we were inseparable. We first took the bus to Trenton together and later commuted by car.

We ran the bank as a partnership, not as two separate head officers. All the qualities of knowledge, judgment, initiative, innovation which he exhibited through the rest of his business career and which are correctly referred to in the obituary came into play in our joint running of the bank.

I have never admired a man more highly than Dick Macgill. A large part of any bank's growth comes from mergers and we pursued that route aggressively. Always calm, always judicious, always knowledgeable, he did a wonderful job in everything he tackled.

Since we were only three years apart in age, I suggested to the Directors he be made Chief Executive Officer several years before I retired. Basically, it was a symbolic move as a tribute to Dick's abilities.

Health Officer Hanson Deserves Salary Hike

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a copy of a letter I have written to Township Mayor Phyllis Marchond.

Given the time and effort spent in evaluating the effectiveness of our Health Officer, Mr. Patrick O. Hanson, and given the additional time spent trying to convince Mark Gordon, The Borough Administrator, of Mr. Hanson's proven capability, I find it reprehensible that Mr. Gordon withheld a much deserved salary increase which the Commission had specifically requested.

In the face of the excellent rating recently given Mr. Hanson by the State Department of Health, it is all the more demeaning that Mr. Hanson failed to be rewarded for his efforts.

Mr. Gordon has sent a clear message to the Health Commission, in effect saying that our judgments and opinions are of no consequence to him. I find this an intolerable circumstance. Accordingly, I am with this letter, resigning from the Regional Health Commission. And, as I serve on the SBRSA's Oversight Committee as a consequence of my membership on the Health Commission, I will of course also step down from that assignment.

It is Mayor, with great regret that I take this action, as I have served Princeton for the past 16 years, and have profited from the experience and relationship. Unfortunately I see no alternative, as the Commission has been regularly and continuously rebuffed by the Administrator.

Perhaps there will be other opportunities in which I can serve our community.

Battlefield Poor Choice For Housing Development

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The idea of using any or all of Princeton Battlefield for residential housing is infuriating. What is the obsession with grabbing up as much undeveloped land as possible, and destroying a natural resource for the sake of making a commercial dollar?

Is it on the assumption that it's unused land? This is not a case of homesteaders reaping the harvest of their land. Our land is very much in use, if not physically, for the sheer love and beauty in it.

Princeton is a staunch preserver of our American history and heritage. From the maintenance of our University to our neighborhoods, to the Battlefield, our pride and tradition remain beyond measure.

As I drive (and fly) within our State, I'm saddened as I see New Jersey's landscape littered with "development." I have no objection to building to accommodate a growing population, but much more care and pride should be taken in doing so, as has been done in the past. Not "slap these up, collect our profits, and move on to another site."

Just as Prince Charles has led the voice in Britain in extreme concern for the future of their architecture and landscape, we should not lose ours. Amongst the frenzied building and chaos of the world around us, Princeton has remained an oasis in which these cannot penetrate. However, if we let something as important as our Battlefield be taken away, surely we will see that oasis chipped away.

Swimmers to Pizza Star: Oh, How Great You Are

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Community Park Swimming and Diving Team would like to thank the Pizza Star for its hospitality to our team with the following:

At Community Park
Meets can last until dark
With diving and swimming replete.
Our team is a winner,
So we go without dinner
In order to better compete.

At the end we are wet,
But starvation's a threat
So we head for a place that will greet us.
Our team is so big
That one doesn't need trig
To see it's a challenge to feed us.

Pizza Star is a winner,
So we go there for dinner.
Rosa welcomes us hungry and wet.
Twenty salads — no problem,
Ninety slices — they're bubblin',
All the noise and commotion —
no sweat.

The service is quick,
But their warmth does the trick;
Rosa even rewards us with ice cream.
So dry and well-fed,
When we head home for bed,
Pizza Star gets the thanks of this team.

Dr. Peterson Is Praised For Traditional Values

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Congratulations to Dr. Chester Peterson, a trustee for the Griggs Trust, for his observation on the future use of Griggs Corner: "We are old Princetonians and take a tremendous amount of pride in the town. We are besieged by offers each day but want to build something everybody will be proud of."

In a community where "take-the-variance-and-run" has become commonplace, Dr. Peterson's observations come as a refreshing affirmation of traditional values. At a time when there seems to be more enthusiasm for celebrating the French revolution than for protecting established monuments to our own, this man should be considered a hero. Hopefully the younger Princetonians will take notice.

Exhibitions

"Evolution", a display of sculpture and works on paper by Eleanor Burnette, will be on exhibition beginning September 23 at AT&T's Corporate Education Center Gallery on Carter Road in Hopewell. The intent of this exhibit is to show how one artist has evolved from style to style. Earlier works as well as more recent ones are cataloged and arranged chronologically so as to show the relationships between them.

Ms. Burnette has been living and working in Mercer County for a number of years. She was born in Chicago and studied fine arts under scholarships at Chicago State University. She has also studied at the Art Institute of Chicago and with Chaim Gross in New York. Most recently she spent a semester as an artist-in-residence at Bowdoin College in Maine, and has promised to exhibit at Johnson & Johnson in 1991. She exhibited recently at the "Black Artists of the Capitol County" invitational at Mercer County College and the Ellarslie Open VII Juried Show at the Trenton Museum.

The AT&T gallery is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays and from 1 to 4 on weekends. The exhibit will continue through November 8.

"ALEXANDER HALL," a watercolor by Robert Sakson, is included in the United Jersey Banks corporate headquarters show, which was curated by Lorraine Skidmore, a Princeton resident.

Israel Is Not Punishing Generation of Palestinians

To the Editor of Town Topics:

While the misstatements and falsehoods in the letters from Peter Spencer and Julianne Kmiec in the August 2 TOWN TOPICS are too numerous to respond to point by point, the main question that prompted the flurry of charges and counter charges is worth settling.

Is Israel, out of hatred and mean-spiritedness, "reducing an entire generation [of Palestinians] to ignorance and illiteracy," as Ms. Kmiec says? Is Israel "collective[ly] punish[ing] ... a whole generation of innocent people" by "deny[ing] ... education to an entire generation of school children?" Of course not, and I believe Ms. Kmiec knows it's not true.

In the New York Times for July 13, 1989, Joel Brinkley writes, "Elementary and secondary schools in the Gaza Strip have remained open through most of the uprising. Israelis and Palestinians say the parents of Gaza students have rigorously enforced order among their children while they are at school so that the military would have no excuse to close them — something West Bank parents have been unwilling or unable to do." If West Bankers learn the lesson of their Gaza brothers and sisters — i.e., hit the books, not the Jews — their schools will remain open too.

One final point for Mr. Spencer. While forcing illiteracy on an entire generation would be terrible if it were true, it would not be genocide. Shame on you, sir, for debasing the word.

Closing of Arab Schools Does Not Equal Genocide

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Having just returned in July from a year's sabbatical leave in Jerusalem, I have followed with interest the exchange of correspondence regarding the advertisement placed by the Committee for Freedom of Education. Claire Taubenblat's defense of the Israeli government's (recently reversed) decision to close West Bank schools gave rise to letters from Peter Spencer and from Julianne Kmiec, a member of the committee.

As one who, while strongly supporting the right of Israel to exist, opposes the occupation of the West Bank and Gaza and believes in the necessity of a compromise settlement between Israel and the Palestinians, I agreed with some of the points made by Mr. Spencer and Ms. Kmiec. At other points, however, their attacks on Israel seemed to me to contain distortions of history and of language.

Ms. Kmiec, for example, claims that the vicious cycle of Middle East terrorism was introduced in the 1930's by Zionists who attacked both the British mandatory authorities and indigenous Arabs. While I am certainly no defender of the tactics of the right-wing paramilitary organizations such as Lech'i and Etzel that arose in the late 30's, I think it is important to recall the context in which they arose, and to point out that the beginning of the "vicious cycle" was a bit more complicated than Ms. Kmiec indicates.

Unmentioned by her are the violent Arab riots in 1929 and again throughout the period 1936-39. Both sets of riots claimed hundreds of Jewish lives, and the ones in the 30's were the immediate catalyst for the establishment of the Jewish paramilitary organizations. Attacks on the British began in force only during the period of World War II, a time when Jews were being exterminated in Europe and the British were barring the doors of Palestine to Jewish refugees.

The effects of the Holocaust — the desperate situation of European Jewry during the war, as well as the plight of the Jewish survivors after it — simply cannot be left out of discussions of the Arab-Israeli dispute.

The subject of the Holocaust brings me to a statement made at the conclusion of Mr. Spencer's letter. "To use the spectre of [Palestinian] terrorism to justify the forced illiteracy of an entire generation is worse than terrorism. It is genocide."

I would like to suggest to Mr. Spencer that he be careful about his use of the word "genocide." I, too, have been upset by the closing of Palestinian schools over the last year-and-a-half. I am glad that they are now reopening, and I have hopes that "the forced illiteracy of an entire generation" may, with restraint on both Palestinian and Israeli sides, be avoided.

But "genocide" means the systematic murder of a people and denotes events such as the extermination of Armenians by Turks at the beginning of this century, of Jews by Germans in the 40's, and of Cambodians by the Pol Pot regime a few years ago. To use this word for lesser instances of inhumanity, grievous as they may be, is to desecrate the memory of the millions whose lives were cruelly and irrevocably ended.

Speak of inhumanity, if you like, Mr. Spencer. There has been plenty of that on both sides of the Arab-Israeli dispute. But leave the word "genocide" out of it.

PLO Should be Blamed For Closing of Schools

To the Editor of Town Topics:

TOWN TOPICS' notice for its Mailbox section reads, in part: "Letters longer than 500 words —or letters on the same subject — may he edited or omitted entirely." Too bad the latter option was not chosen for Peter W. Spencer's overly long, highly prejudiced letter (TOWN TOPICS, August 2) on school closings in the West Bank.

This, and the letter follnwing it by Julianne Kmiec, deplore the withholding of educational opportunity from Palestinian youth. Both letters also attempt to excuse the violent acts committed by these same youths. It was this violence that resulted in the closing of those schools that were the instigators of it. Not all schools were closed. Nursery schools, kindergartens and most West Bank vocational schools remained open. Ironically, in Gaza all schools stayed open because there the mosques, not the schools were used to incite violence.

The recent phased reopening of West Bank schools and universities should not be written off cavalierly as due to international pressure. Israel is a country committed to education. Nowhere is this better illustrated than in its administration of the territories since 1967. Since then the number of elementary and secondary schools has increased by more than 50%.

The percentage of women over age 15 getting through 8th grade increased from less than 25% in 1970 to more than 50% in 1986. During the same period, the percentage of women not going to school at all dropped hy half. Before 1967 there was not a single university in the West Bank; today there are six!

Yet despite this commitment to education and the desire of the Israel government to encourage normal llife in the West Bank, schools were closed. For this the PLO and its Palestinian supporters must be blamed. They are the ones who promoted the use of the schools to teach violence and terrorism. They are the ones who cynically used the young children in the front lines of the uprising since they are less likely to be punished.

Having said all this, I regret that this exchange continues in TOWN TOPICS. Ms. Taubenblatt's letter (July 26) was a rational response to a legitimate ad that had appeared in the paper. Beyond that, I think that space in TOWN TOPICS is better used to cover matters of local interest. There are other forums more appropriate to debating global events.

Summer Sounds Series Praised by a Parent

To the Editor, Town Topics:

I would like to express my gratitude to the sponsors of Summer Sounds, the free rock concert series that has been presented for five nights in Community Park North this past month. As a parent of two recent Princeton High School graduates, I watch in frustration as these young people and their contemporaries search for a focal point to which they can return as continually welcome members of the Princeton community. With the laudable exception of Bill Trego's invitation to join the choir at the PHS annual Winter Concert, this is the only secular opportunity for that.

Hooray! and thank you very much to those responsible: The Arts Council of Princeton, Princeton Recreation Department, the Princeton Police, and especially the financial angels — The Chocolate Cat, Rosa's Caffe, and Pizza Star. This is one important way to cultivate and preserve our community and provides a fine alternative model to those businesses which threaten it with the weight of exploitative commercial enterprise.

Schedules Are Announced For Basketball, Hockey

Yes, it's August and the football team is still more than two weeks away from its first preseason practice, but for those diehard Tiger fans who want to plan ahead, we've got the men's basketball and hockey schedules for 1989-90.

From one year to another, neither changes that much, with the Ivy basketball and ECAC hockey schedules rotating according to a prearranged formula.

However, there are a couple of interesting schedule changes coming up for Pete Carril's defending Ivy champions and their arch-rival, Pennsylvania For the past several years the two teams have met on Tuesday nights in early and late February. The home and away dates would alternate each season

Tigers to Hit TV 3 Times

Limited to just one television appearance on ESPN a year ago, the Princeton football team will be on more than any other Ivy team this fall.

In the second season of its three-year contract with the Ivy League, the all-sports network will televise five Saturday contests, and one on Thanksgiving Day.

Princeton fans will further benefit from the televised schedule, because all three games will be away from Palmer Stadium. The first will be at 12:30 against Dartmouth in Hanover on September 16; the second against Holy Cross in Worcester at 12:30 on September 30; and the third against Harvard in Cambridge at noon on October 28.

The other two Saturday dates, both with 12:30 starting times, will be on October 7, Penn at Columbia, and October 14, Yale at Dartmouth. Brown, with its 0-9-1 record a year ago, and little hope of improvement this fall, will be the only league team not getting a television appearance.

As announced last spring, Penn and Cornell have agreed to switch their meeting to Turkey Day, and ESPN is obviously hoping these two will stage a rematch of last year's showdown for the Ivy title.

To its chagrin, ESPN had already committed itself to televise Harvard-Yale last year, and those two were playing only for pride at that point. Now ESPN, with its final Saturday telecast October 28, is hoping it has guessed right with the Big Red and the Quakers.

The way Ivy football goes these days, the big one could be Columbia at Brown.

This winter the Tigers and the Quakers will open their league seasons against each other on Saturday, January 6, in Jadwin. The second game will come a month later, Monday, February 6, in the Palestra. So there will be no late-season game between these two with the league title possibly at stake.

———

The rest of the Ivy schedule follows the usual format. However, the Orange and Black will also play Yale and Brown before its exam break on Friday and Saturday, January 12 and 13. It will close with Cornell and Columbia at home, the first weekend in March.

As usual, Princeton will open its season at home against Franklin & Marshall on Saturday night (November 25) of Thanksgiving weekend, and follow with Lehigh at home.

The University of Dayton, an opponent the Tigers haven't faced in years, will be the first road foe on Saturday, December 2. Iona, St. Joseph's, Rutgers and Delaware all repeat as opponents, and Susquehanna has been added as the post-exam break patsy.

There's no game against Seton Hall, the NCAA runner-up last year. Instead, Princeton will play in two tournaments, one before and one after Christmas.

It will join Xavier, San Francisco and Canisus in the Met Life Classic in San Francisco on December 22 and 23. After Christmas, the team will travel to East Lansing, Michigan for the Spartan Classic. Participating teams in addition to Michigan State include Arkansas-Little Rock and San Jose State.

The complete schedule:

Nov. 25	Franklin & Marshall
Nov. 28	Lehigh
Dec. 2	at Dayton

PRINCETON MOTORSPORT

Princeton Motorsport value.
These times demand it.

These days, value is no option. It's a necessity.

That's the reason we're delivering what the times demand: harder-and-harder-to-find value on the true quality and performance car of the times — Mercedes-Benz.

But purchase price is only half of what makes up true value these days. The cost of driving and maintaining a car is the other half. And, if you want exceptional service to go along with your Mercedes-Benz, there aren't many who can match our reputation.

There's never been a time when true quality and real value counted more, and never a car or a dealer that delivered more value and performance than Mercedes-Benz and Princeton Motorsport.

Stop by today and let us prove it.

Few Changes for Hockey. The hockey schedule has fewer changes than the basketball, with 22 of the 26 contests played against the other 11 ECAC Division I teams in almost the same order as in past years. Only the home and away pattern has switched.

Instead of opening on the road against Cornell and Colgate, Jim Higgins' skaters will face them in Baker in mid-November. The season will end as always against Brown and Yale, this time at Providence and New Haven.

The only real switch in the league schedule involves Army, Princeton's traveling partner. The home-and-home series with the Cadets has previously been played on successive nights over Thanksgiving weekend. This time, the games will be split further apart with the Orange and Black meeting Army in Baker on Tuesday, November 28 in Baker Rink, and in West Point on Tuesday, January 16.

The four non-league opponents include two from the Hockey East league: Boston University on Saturday, November 25, in Boston, and Northeastern at home on Saturday, December 16. A pair of home contests with Colorado College round out the schedule on Saturday and Sunday December 30 and 31 (New Year's Eve).

PHS SUMMER HOOPSTERS: Three members of the Princeton High varsity basketball team gaining extra experience by participating in a summer basketball league at Community Park this summer are from ieft Danny Page and Tom Shockley, both seniors, and sophomore Ben Stentz. PHS coach Doug Snyder and Little Tigers are determined to improve on last year's 2-21 record.

Playoffs Have Begun In Basketball League

The regular season has ended, and playoffs began Monday night, in the Princeton Recreation Unlimited Basketball League.

The first-round matches at Community Park matched SES No. 1 against the Dillon Demons and undefeated My-T-Sharp against Princeton High.

My-T-Sharp continued its undefeated play last week, walloping PHS, 90-63. Darius Young scored 30 points to lead five players on the winning team into double figures. Dave Johnson had 16 points, John Thompson, 15, and Rob Bosley and Fred Young contributed 15 apiece. For Princeton, Tom Shockley tallied 21 points, Anthony White had 14 and Sean Miller, 12.

In the other game, the Demons squeezed out a 53-49 triumph over SES. Dave Wright was high man for the victors with 17 points, followed by Eric Bosley with 16. Marv Trotman, Jr. pumped in 25 for SES, and Pete Sharpless added 11.

Ficarro's Wins 2 of 3 In Mercer Softball

The Princeton-based Steve Ficarro's Auto Body women's softball team won two of its three games last week, gaining a forfeit victory over T. J. Entertainment, defeating Champale 9-6, and losing a tough, defensive struggle against first-place Three Seasons, 2-0. Ficarro's record is now 16-9 in the 13-team Mercer County Women's League.

In the win over Champale,

Ficarro's winning pitcher Karen Sprague aided her own cause with a perfect four for four performance, including a double and a triple. Also hitting well were Cindy Lombardo and Grace Durland (each two for three), and Debbie Smyth and Liz Sellinger (each two for four).

In the loss to 3 Seasons, Ficarro's losing pitcher Doreen Romanchuk did an excellent job, limiting the league leaders to just one earned run, and the defense, led by shortstop Sprague, and Trish Kane at second, played very well. However, once again Ficarro's offense was not on track, as no base runner got beyond second base. Only Durland was hot, going 2 for 3.

With one rain makeup game to play (vs. Dot's Girls), Ficarro's is guaranteed at least a tie for the sixth and final playoff berth. The team will be in action again on Tuesday, August 15 against a to-be-determined opponent.

Sponsor Now on Board For Tennis Tournament

At this writing, two positions in the eight-man draw remain to be filled, but the Princeton Tennis Invitational now has a major sponsor to help cover its expenses.

The tournament, set for Thursday, August 24, through Sunday, August 27, at Scanticon on Route One will now be known as the New Jersey Bell Yellow Pages Invitational

---

Andre Agassi tops the eight-man field, followed by Kevin Curren, Sergio Bruguera, Goran Ivanisevic, David Wheaton and Japan's top player Shuzo Matsuoko. Negotiations are under way to round out the field with two other foreign players.

Wheaton is coming off an upset of Agassi in the quarterfinals of the Volvo Tournament in Stratton, Vt. last week.

TIPS FROM A PRO: New Jersey Nets star Roy Hinson gives some basketball pointers to Princeton Family YMCA campers, Jessica Charlap, Samantha Sanford, Leslie Strauss, and Colleen Fityere during a recent camp visit.

The tournament is a single-elimination format with two quarterfinal matches played Thursday afternoon and two more Friday, followed by the semifinals at 1 p.m. Saturday and the championship plus a celebrity match at 1 p.m. Sunday.

A pro-am event featuring former New Jersey Governor Brendan Bryne, Philadelphia 76er Mike Giminski and Princeton University basketball coach Pete Carril will be held at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, August 23 on the Mercer County Park courts.

Thursday and Friday tickets are $20 apiece for general admission, Saturday's are $25, and tickets to the finals are $30. A series ticket which guarantees a reserved seat for all sessions is $125.

For tickets or more information call 520-0127.

Entry Deadline Monday For Super Seniors Tennis

The deadline for singles entries has passed, but doubles teams have until 3 p.m. this Monday to enter the 1989 NJTA Super Seniors Tennis Championships.

Men 60 and over are eligible for this event, which is sponsored by the United States Tennis Association and the Middle States Tennis Association. Play will be on the Princeton University courts.

Draw for doubles is limited to 16 teams, but players need not have a partner to enter. The fee is $12 per person, and play will begin this Tuesday.

For more information or an entry form, call Jack Geisel at 924-7678.

Registration Under Way For Tourneys at YMCA

The YMCA is planning to sponsor a slow-pitch softball tournament on Saturday, September 16, at Plainsboro Park.

Davis Cup League

The Princeton Community Tennis Program will run its Davis Cup competition the weeks of August 14-18 and 21-25, from 9 a.m to noon, Monday through Friday.

This is a fun, competitive team tennis program. Children ages 9 to 18 are grouped by age and ability. Each team represents a different country and competes against all other teams in a round robin format. Prizes are awarded. The cost is $35 a week.

The tournament is open to a maximum of 10 intermediate level teams. Registration will be accepted through September 1 on a first-come, first-serve basis. The registration fee is $50.

The YMCA will also sponsor a four-person volleyball tournament on Saturday, September 30, and a three-person basketball tournament on December 9. For information call David Anderson at 497-YMCA.

The YMCA is also accepting registrations for its new four-on-four flag football league. The league will play Sunday mornings from September through November. Teams of six to eight people over 18 years of age may join the league by calling Rose McInnes at 497-YMCA. There is a team fee of $100.

The games will emphasize speed, agility and skill and be organized like the pick-up games played at high school and college. There will also be fall adult leagues in soccer, volleyball, basketball, racquetball and squash.

YM Names New Coach For Flying Fish Team

Carla Malinak, who competed on an undefeated Lakeland Hills YMCA for many years, has been named as the new head coach for the YMCA's Flying Fish swim team. Her goals for the 1989-90 season are to increase team size, win the division, and qualify as many swimmers as possible for the New Jersey YMCA's North/South meet.

Malinak attended Bloomsberg University, where she was named to the Pennsylvania Scholastic Athlete Conference Swim Team. Last summer she had the unique experience to work with Olympic Head Swim Coach, Richard Quick, and his assistant, Eddie Reese. This experience enabled her to perfect drills and coaching techniques. She assisted with the training of Jill Sterkel, four-time Olympic Team member, and Chris Jacobs, 1988 Silver Medalist in the men's 100m free.

The Princeton Family YMCA 1989-90 Flying Fish swim team is open to all interested swimmers, ages 6 to 18, who are at the YWCA Minnow Level, or the American Red Cross Advanced Beginner Level. During the 1988-89 swim season the Flying Fish placed first in the New Jersey Co-ed B Division.

The YMCA will kick off the 1989-90 season with a Competitive Stroke and Turn Clinic, September 11 through October 6 for all those interested. The clinic will enable swimmers to improve strokes and turns as well as to begin to build the important relationships between coaches and swimmers. Each week there will be additional emphasis on a specific stroke as part of the overall stroke and turn training.

Time Trials for the 1989-90 team will be held on October 9. All interested in participating in the Flying Fish swim team may register for the team and/or the Stroke and Turn Clinic at the YMCA September 5-9. Scholarships are available. For additional information call Ms. Malinak at 497-YMCA.

3 Win Championships At State Track Meet

Princeton residents won three championships at the Hershey State Track and Field Meet held last month at Edison Park in Edison. In order to qualify for the State Meet, individuals had to participate in a local and district meet and finish first in their events at those levels.

Several Princeton representatives participated in the State Meet. The three who won championships were Anne Murphy, who won the girls' softball throw for ages 9 and 10 with a throw of 81'9"; Robin Meray, who won the standing long jump in girls' 13 and 14 age group with a distance of 7'8½"; and Jud Stone, who won the 50-meter dash for the boys' 9 and 10 age group with a time of 8 seconds.

Princeton residents also fared well in other events. Miss Murphy was second in girls' 9-10 50-meter dash. Sarah Foster finished third in the 400-meter dash for girls 11-12. Davidson Mosoma took third in the 100-meter dash for boys 11-12. Andre Wilson competed in the boys' 11-12 softball throw and finished fifth. Imani Miller finished sixth in the girls' 200-meter dash for 9- and 10-year-olds.

Parked Cars No Place For Animals In Summer

Now that hot weather is here again, the Mid-Atlantic Regional Office of the Humane Society of the United States would like to remind pet owners not to leave animals in parked cars on summer days.

On a warm day, the temperature in a parked car can reach 160 degrees in a matter of minutes, even with partially opened windows.

It is amazing that as often as we warn people about leaving dogs (or any animal) in a car on a hot summer day, humane societies are bombarded with calls each summer after a "pet lover" has gone shopping for a short time and left their dog in the car.

This office has available flyers free of charge which can be placed in store windows, on bulletin boards, or in car windows to warn people of the hazards.

If you do see a dog left in a car, notify local police or the animal control officer.

When the dog has been removed, follow these simple steps to cool it down:

- Get the dog into shade and apply cool (not cold) water all over its body.
- Apply ice packs or cold towels only to head, neck and chest.
- Let the dog drink small amounts of cool water, or lick ice cubes or ice cream.
- Get the animal to a veterinarian right away — it could save its life.

If you love your dog, leave it home this summer when doing shopping and errands.

Address your request for flyers to:

psst!

We don't want to shout about it, but Peyton is talking incentives during the hot summer months. ■ Now is your chance to make a great deal on an elegant townhouse at Governors Lane. ■ Those who are lolling about at Nantucket or Kennebunkport won't be here to take advantage of the special offers being made this summer. By the time they get back, it may be too late. ■ Governors Lane is off Terhune Road near North Harrison Street. Our model and sales office is open every day this summer, and a Peyton representative is waiting to talk with you.

New Listing

In beautiful Bedens Brook, secluded by luxuriant trees, this impressive contemporary offers gracious living with style. The dramatic architecture is enhanced by the natural wood exterior, stained the soft gray like that weathered by salt breezes from the sea. A skillful architect arranged the spacious rooms so almost all have glass walls that share the delightful view of a rich green golf course and the distant hills. Double doors open to a wide foyer, step-down living room with fireplace, formal dining room, superb kitchen, breakfast room, powder room, spectacular family room with dramatic fireplace and a guest room with bath. Upstairs — a luxurious master bedroom with fireplace, dressing room and bath opening to balcony, two family bedrooms with bath and an au-pair room and bath with separate stairway. A very special house. $785,000

A CONTEMPORARY IN THE PRINCETON WOODS

ON A QUIET CUL-DE-SAC, A CONTEMPORARY THAT PARTAKES OF THE WOODS ITSELF IN ITS DESIGN. Inside the welcome foyer is a spiral staircase with a living room with fireplace and cathedral ceiling to the right and a den with fireplace to the left. The formal dining room has both a bank of china cabinets plus a summer veranda. And the eat-in-kitchen has lots of light, massive beams and a large greenhouse at the work area plus a central island. Still, there is a full family room with bath and a ground floor bedroom for guests. Upstairs, is a spacious master suite with his and her studies plus a laundry room, as well, and yet two more bedrooms and a full bath. Cathedral ceilings abound in this gem with a sheer window wall on the woods which are left in the natural state. Space, quietness, beauty, and a fine communion with nature.
